

ICC in a World of Covid-19

13 OCTOBER 2020, 3pm AEDT | ONLINE

COVID-19, as we know has disrupted businesses around the world. Consequently, it has also impacted on how businesses and other stake holders formulate their dispute resolution strategies. The impact of the virus has created confusion and obfuscated the business environment. Additionally, businesses continue to grapple with the changing regulatory regimes prescribed by authorities to fight the virus. The environment continues to remain volatile as it is difficult to predict the spread of the virus, its resurgence, and supervision in the absence of any credible vaccine. ICC Australia welcomes the arbitral community to join them for an interactive webinar to discuss how the workings and function of the ICC during this World of Covid-19. The webinar would include an update of the ICC activities and statistics, overview of the work of ICC Australian nominations committee, an update on the recent work of the ICC Commission, revision of the ICC Rules of Arbitration.

ICC INTERNATIONAL COURT OF ARBITRATION

The International Court of Arbitration is the world's leading arbitral institution. Since 1923 has administered over 24,000 cases and has helped resolve difficulties in, it international commercial and business disputes to support trade and investment.

The Court provides parties with a flexible and neutral setting for dispute resolution. It offers confidentiality and extraordinary freedom for parties to choose the framework for how and where they want to resolve their dispute. While the dispute itself is resolved by independent arbitrators, the Court supervises the process from beginning to end, increasing the quality of the process and enforceability of the awards.

Members of the ICC Court are appointed by the ICC World Council on the proposal of national committees and groups. To date, the Court has 180 appointed members from over 100 jurisdictions.

The Court's Secretariat, headed by its Secretary General, comprises a permanent staff of more than 80 lawyers and administrative staff of 37 different nationalities who speak as many languages.

The Secretariat is divided into case-management teams, seven based in Paris, one in Hong Kong, one in New York, one in São Paulo and another one in Singapore.
