The Australian Academy of Law invites all Fellows and members of the public to this event. Please put the time and date in your diary and register.

Fellows and members of the public will hear from the heads of Australia's intermediate courts of appeal (civil jurisdiction), including appellate full courts, who will discuss with each other common issues arising from the operation of these courts. Examples of the issues to be discussed are: rights to appeal; the nature of an appeal; how the hearing of appeals is organised: when reasons are required; the advantages and disadvantages of a separate court of appeal; and the importance of civility.

It promises to be a unique and interesting occasion. This event will be held in person (maximum of 82) and also streamed online.
