MANAGEMENT STRAND

With surveys conducted over recent years revealing that lawyers suffer disproportionately from anxiety and depression when compared with other professionals it is timely to pause to consider what is causing this to be so and the measures which may be used to ameliorate the problem.

Justice Marshall will address the bar on this topic whilst bringing to bear in the discussion the way he has dealt with the challenges presented by his battle with depression in the hope that he may inspire us to join the cause of removing the stigma confronting barristers who may have reason to deal with the issue themselves or in the context of supporting colleagues.

This seminar has been organised by the New South Wales Bar Association Health and Wellbeing Committee.
